

Super Reader Highlights

Super readers soar to new heights in reading adventures!

I can write, what's your superpower?

Vermont poet and author, Rick Agran, led super readers on a quest to explore their creative writing powers through poetry! Many wrote poems of question about a wide variety of animals, while others explored their five senses through poetry. One student brought us on a lovely journey to a family sugar house where we could truly taste, see, hear, smell, and feel the experience. Our young super poets experimented with personification while writing about what it might feel like to be a coloring book, bunny, cheetah, lawn tractor, dinosaur, rhinoceros, moose, bear and more!

To Be A Bunny
By Kestrel age 5

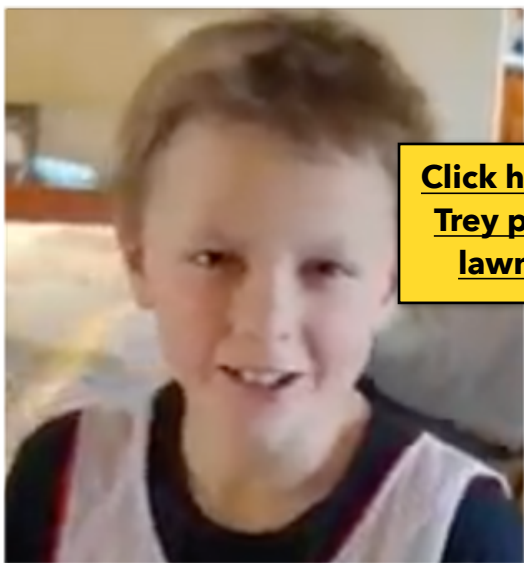

It feels jumpy and it hurts,
It feels hungry when you can't get food to eat,
I hope you don't eat the other bunnies!
I like to eat cheetahs because I don't have to go hunting everyday to get cheetahs!

We encourage ALL of our super readers, young and old alike, to keep writing! On March 18, Elizabeth McHale, will be our guest on the March Book Share Night. She will be telling us all about literary journals and inviting all super readers to contribute to our very own Super Reader literary journal! Please come prepared to share your poems, short stories, illustrations, and other creative writing pieces. If you can't make it on March 18, we invite you to send your writing to us ahead of time so we can share it for you! All creative writing pieces can be submitted for the literary journal to Katie, katieboyd.wings@gmail.com, or Mrs. Stewart, mariastewart.wings@gmail.com. (Pieces written and shared previously can be submitted for the literary journal, too!)

How Does It Feel To Be A Coloring Book? By Sequoia age 8

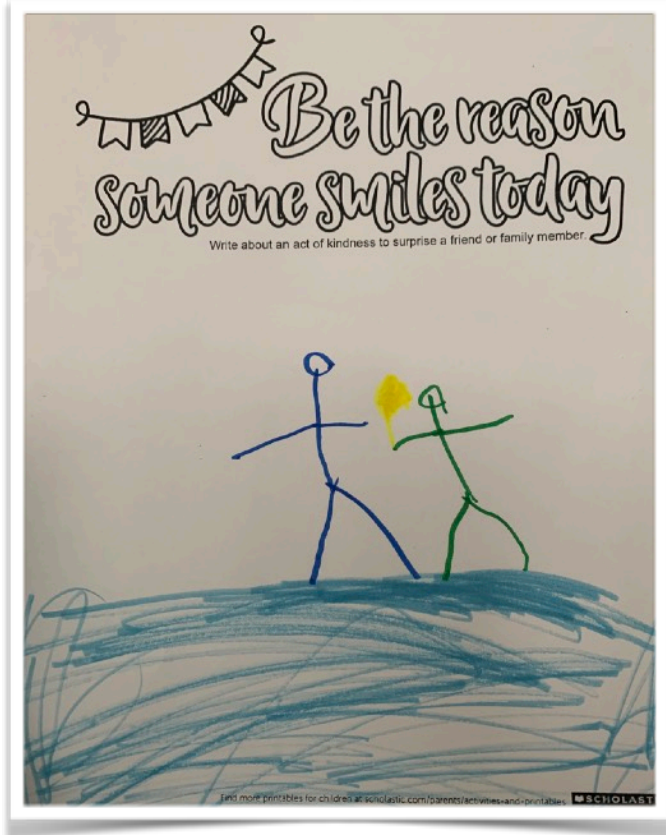

How does it feel to be colored on?
Does it hurt?
Does it tickle?
Does it feel cool?
Do you know the colors of the rainbow? 🌈

To Be A Cheetah

I like to run really fast,
It gets out my energy then I can relax,
I like to run really fast because it's fun also!
My favorite animal to eat is bunnies.

Shark

Where did you get those fins?
I got them from a garbage pile.
Where did you get those sharp teeth?
I got them from the shark dentist.
Shark, where did you get your tail?
I got my tail from a mermaid.
Shark, how did you get so big?
I ate a lot of fish.
Shark, where did you get your gray?
I got it from the water.
Shark where did you get your back eyes?
I got them from the ink of a squid.

Dear Leprechaun, I think you should get caught in one of my traps. you would be happy living with me and my family. I will train you how to be a pirate. I got a big house for you to live in. Me and you will have lucky charms every day for breakfast. We could have a lot of fun together. For these reasons I think you should let me catch you. Love Pirate Brian.
